In one of my recent lessons, I taught my students how to ask for clothes in French, a practical skill for any language learner. For example, you can say: “Hello, I’m looking for a [sweater/dress/shirt] in size [M, L, etc.]. Do you have this model in [color]?” Or: “Do you have these jeans in another size?”

These simple phrases make it easy to navigate a store or shop online in French. I also explained the importance of using polite terms like “please” (s’il vous plaît) and “thank you” (merci). My students loved practicing these expressions, and some even created dialogues to practice!

What about you? Have you ever tried shopping for clothes in French? Share your experiences in the comments!
